

HOW VACCINES WORK

Vaccines work by imitating a bacteria or virus using either mRNA or a dead or weakened version of the bacteria or virus.

The vaccine raises the body's alarm. It trains the body to recognize and fight the virus.

When the body encounters the real-deal virus, it is primed and ready to fight for the body's health.

